Tips from Judges in Previous Years

1. Completely read through this document before submitting your nomination
2. A successful nomination narrative will adequately address all criteria of impact, initiative, collaboration and financial soundness/creativity
3. Be sure that your nominee is submitted for the correct category (organizers reserve the right to re-categorize nominations if they appear to be submitted incorrectly)
4. It is helpful to include supportive documents such as resumes, letters of support, success stories, etc.

Basic Criteria

- Initiative: Evidence of creativity and imagination beyond what is typically expected.
- Impact: Measurable evidence of economic change or action on the community and/or constituents because of the project, program or person.
- Collaboration: Evidence of facilitating, encouraging, or utilizing cooperative efforts among nonprofits, local government, and constituents.
- Financial Soundness/Creativity: Where applicable, evidence that sound financial management techniques were utilized.

Selection Process

- Nominations are judged in the context of positively furthering the community economic development movement in Indiana
- Prior to summit, nominee names are announced via press release, social media, and PI newsletter
- All nominees receive one complimentary ticket to summit
- Winners are selected by a panel of judges with expertise in the community development industry and names are kept confidential until announced during the awards ceremony at summit on February 17, 2022
- Those that nominated a winner are privately contacted for assistance ensuring the winner is available to accept the award at summit
- Winners are recognized during summit and receive a personalized award plaque or trophy along with a check for the designated monetary contribution afterwards
- Winner names are announced after summit via press release, social media, and PI newsletter
